Nurse Practitioner Joins Gulf Coast Medical Center Staff

Port Richey, Fla., June 21, 2011 - The Gulf Coast Medical Center is pleased to announce that Faylise James, ARNP-C, joined its medical team as nurse practitioner effective March 21, 2011.

“Her enthusiasm and dedication to provide patient care parallels with our mission; she is the perfect fit,” said Dr. Capone, senior physician.

“I am very happy to introduce Fay as our newest nurse practitioner,” said Lori Brienza, RN, LHRM, CCS-P, Facilities Director. “She’s personable, compassionate, and has all the qualities that our patient population will enjoy. We are privileged to have her join our team.”

Fay James, ARNP-C, graduated from the adult nurse practitioner program at the University of South Florida in December 2010.

“Upon completion of the adult nurse practitioner program, I wanted to begin practice in a primary care environment. I agree with the patient care approach I’ve witnessed at Gulf Coast Medical Center, and believe I will enhance their mission and values. I truly enjoy working with Dr. Capone and am excited to join the care team.”
