Gulf Coast Medical Center Honors Employees for Years of Service

Port Richey, Fla., May 15, 2012 - Gulf Coast Medical Center staff members were honored for their commitment and dedication to the medical center at a recent appreciation celebration.

Over 25 years of service

Mickey Wagner, diagnostic ultrasound and x-ray technologist, was honored for over 25 years of service at Gulf Coast Medical Center.

Wagner said he has seen many changes in the medical profession throughout his career, namely technology and quick diagnosis of a medical problem.

He has never felt a need to move to another job because Gulf Coast Medical Center has always maintained first and foremost a dedication to patient care.

“I’ve seen the medical center grow so much,” Wagner said. “We offer a variety of doctors and specialists and now a second generation of physician leaders.”

“Helping patients get better and knowing they are thankful is still one of the greatest rewards and motivators,” said Wagner. “I like being able to make a difference in patient care.”
